

The Silicon Valley Council of Nonprofits (SVCN)

HNVF Directory
Winter 2010

The mission of SVCN is to champion the interests of health and human service nonprofits in Silicon Valley. SVCN works to ensure the nonprofit sector's voice is heard and that solutions are developed in ways in which Everybody Wins. SVCN created this directory to present a comprehensive source of the benefits this array of services provides for the City of San José and to highlight the integration of these services in the overall priorities identified by the San José City Council.

The Healthy Neighborhood Venture Fund (HNVF) mobilizes the assets, strengths, resources for the City, with a vision that "All San José residents enjoy a higher quality of life because of their improved socialization, health, physical fitness, and strong connection to their community and neighbors."

HNVF funds an array of programs that help the City of San José achieve this vision. The HNVF fund has been an important community funding resource that maximizes services to the residents throughout the City of San José. The $6 million base HNVF allocation leveraged $26 million last year, resulting in $32 million in services to the City of San José. The City of San José HNVF set new priorities, new funding criteria and new program standards consistent with the RBA model planned by the community for 2009-10. In FY 2009-10, over 51 programs will serve the San José Community and leverage over $11.5 million in matching funds. The city commitment to seniors is $1,395,825 and for youth, $2,525,675.

HNVF provides $5,074,263 in funding for the following programs:

- The Children's Health Initiative, which ensures children whose families earn up to 300% of federal poverty level and are not eligible for Medi-Cal and Healthy Families-Healthy Kids, is the essential component in helping reach the goal of making health insurance accessible to all children in the County. HNVF commits $2,100,000 to this effort.
- Homework Assistance: Level one sites offer afterschool homework help at many locations in San José. Afterschool programs promote healthy youth development, and student learning. This includes homework centers and tutoring; recreation, arts, and enrichment activities; and technology centers. Youth enjoy safe, fun, and enriching activities at sites located throughout San José. HNVF commits $2,254,263 to this effort.
- The Senior Nutrition Program, operated by Parks, Recreation and Neighborhood Services, is funded for a total of $670,000. This program provides nutrition, case management, in-home assistance, and multicultural services.
- The Smoking Ban Outreach is funded at $50,000.
